Synergy proud to be a partner for Truth and Reconciliation discussion workshop

Lloydminster, Sask. – Synergy Credit Union is proud to be a sponsor of the Engaging Saskatchewan Co-operatives and Credit Unions in the Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s Calls to Action.

The workshop is for co-operative and credit union board managers and staff and will provide in-depth information on truth and reconciliation, treaties, and the calls to action. It will also feature discussion on how co-operatives and credit unions can effectively engage in Truth and Reconciliation.

The workshop, which will take place on April 9 in Saskatoon at the Saskatoon Inn, is organized by the Saskatchewan Co-operative Association and the Office of the Treaty Commissioner.

“Synergy is proud to be a part of such an important conversation in our province,” said Synergy Credit Union CEO Glenn Stang. “We encourage our co-operative and credit union partners to take advantage of this sharing of information and discussion.”

This workshop is being organized in response to requests from attendees of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Association Tools for a New Reality conference held March 20, 2018 where a session was held on Responding to the Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action. Participants in their evaluation of the conference requested more in-depth information on the Calls to Action and how co-operatives can effectively respond to them.

Registration for the one-day workshop is now open.
